MISSION

The mission of Special Olympics Wisconsin is to provide year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports for children and adults with cognitive disabilities, giving them continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy and participate in a sharing of gifts, skills and friendship with their families, other Special Olympics athletes and the community.

PHILOSOPHY

Special Olympics is founded on the belief that people with cognitive disabilities can, with proper instruction and encouragement, learn, enjoy and benefit from participation in individual and team sports, adapted as necessary to meet the needs of those with special cognitive and physical limitations.

Special Olympics believes that consistent training is essential to the development of sports skills, and that competition among those of equal abilities is the most appropriate means of testing these skills, measuring progress and providing incentives for personal growth.

Special Olympics believes that through sports training and competition, people with cognitive disabilities benefit physically, mentally, socially and spiritually; families are strengthened; and the community at large, both through participation and observation, is united in understanding people with cognitive disabilities in an environment of equality, respect and acceptance.

PRINCIPLES

To provide the most enjoyable, beneficial and challenging activities for athletes with cognitive disabilities, Special Olympics operates worldwide in accordance with the following principles and beliefs:

- That the goal of Special Olympics is to help bring all persons with cognitive disabilities into the larger society under conditions whereby they are accepted, respected and given a chance to become productive citizens.
- That, as a means of achieving this goal, Special Olympics encourages its more capable athletes to move from Special Olympics training and competition into school and community programs where they can compete in regular sports activities. The decision to leave or to continue involvement in Special Olympics is the athlete's choice.
- That all Special Olympics activities — at the local, state/provincial, national and international levels — reflect the values, standards, traditions, ceremonies and events embodied in the modern Olympic movement. These Olympic-type activities have been broadened and enriched to celebrate the moral and spiritual qualities of persons with intellectual disabilities so as to enhance their dignity and self-esteem.
- That participation in Special Olympics training programs and competitive events is open to all people with intellectual disabilities who are at least 8 years old, regardless of the degree of their disability.
- That comprehensive, year-round sports training is available to every Special Olympics athlete, conducted by well-qualified coaches in accordance with the standardized Sports Rules formulated and adopted by Special Olympics, and that every athlete who participates in a Special Olympics sport will be trained in that sport.
- That every Special Olympics Program includes sports events and activities that are appropriate to the age and ability level of each athlete, from motor activities to the most advanced competition.
- That Special Olympics provides full participation for every athlete regardless of economic circumstance and conducts training and competition under the most favorable conditions possible, including facilities, administration, training, coaching, officiating and events.
- That at every awards ceremony, in addition to the traditional medals for first, second and third places, athletes finishing from fourth to last place are presented a suitable place ribbon with appropriate ceremony.

- That, to the greatest extent possible, Special Olympics activities will be run by and involve local volunteers, from school and college-age individuals to senior citizens, in order to create greater opportunities for public understanding of intellectual disabilities.
- That, although Special Olympics is primarily a program of sports training and competition, efforts are made to offer athletes a full range of artistic, social and cultural experiences through activities such as dances, art exhibits, concerts, visits to historic sites, clinics, theatrical performances and similar activities.
- That the "Spirit of Special Olympics" — skill, courage, sharing and joy — incorporates universal values which transcend all boundaries of geography, nationality, political philosophy, gender, age, race or religion.

VALUES

Mutual Respect, Positive Attitude, Accountability, Teamwork and Dedication
Values SOWI lives by to create an environment of integrity where winning is more than coming in first.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS ORGANIZATION

Special Olympics International

Special Olympics International. (SOI) is a worldwide program of sports training and athletic competition open to individuals with cognitive disabilities regardless of their abilities. The International Olympic Committee has granted its official recognition to SOI. SOI is responsible for the overall leadership and management of Special Olympics while providing technical assistance to the national and state programs.

Special Olympics North America

Special Olympics North America (SONA) is accredited by SOI and responsible for following the policies and rules established by SOI in the delivery of services in North America (i.e. Canada, the United States and Mexico).

Special Olympics Wisconsin, Inc.

Special Olympics Wisconsin (SOWI) is a not-for-profit [501(c)(3)] charitable organization incorporated in the state of Wisconsin to provide sports training and athletic competition for persons with cognitive disabilities. SOWI is accredited by SOI and responsible for following the policies and rules established by SOI in the delivery of services in Wisconsin. It is known as a Program of SOI. A volunteer Board of Directors provides policy decisions and long-range planning for SOWI. The Board employs a staff of people to implement the day-to-day operations.

Region

Regional programs are geographic regions of the state which are established to provide support, assistance, and competitive opportunities to local Agencies. Wisconsin is currently divided into seven Regions to serve the athletes, coaches, families and volunteers of our various communities. Each Region is staffed by full-time employees and has an active management team of volunteers that provides assistance with the Regional operations.

Agency

An Agency consists of a local group of individuals with cognitive disabilities who wish to train and compete in Special Olympics and an Agency Management Team willing to organize safe, quality training for these athletes (minimum of two adult Class A volunteers, one serving as Agency Manager). The Agency manager oversees all aspects of the Agency including training, competition, fund raising, public relations, family involvement, financial responsibilities and administration. They receive all mailings, phone calls and paper work for the Agency and are responsible for distributing and communicating all pertinent information to their Agency Management Team, head coaches, assistant coaches and family members as appropriate. Most importantly, an Agency manager agrees to uphold the philosophy, principles, values and policies of SOI and SOWI for the benefit of the athletes.
